Eagleton Out? Better Now Than Later

You are cautioned before reading this piece that The Star won't support the national Democratic ticket in November regardless of the decision on the vice-presidential nominee—but we offer the suggestion the party could do better without Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton.

There isn't anyone the Democrats could name to replace him which would change our thinking about November. The Miami Beach convention invited defeat when it named McGovern its standard bearer.

Looking at the question objectively it seems to this editor the Democrats should do their best to avert a disaster and make it a horse race in November. Which means Eagleton must get off the ticket.

The fault is not the disclosures about Eagleton's health problem as much as the fact that there are two suspicious characters on the ticket—and that's one more than any party can stand if it expects to avert a landslide for the Republicans.

In some respects the people might trust Eagleton with all his health problems rather than McGovern. Both are duly-elected senators. But McGovern is from South Dakota, noted for its radicalism, while Eagleton is from Missouri, whose people generally are credited with sound judgment.

If the positions were reversed, Eagleton the standard bearer, and McGovern the fellow destined to be dropped, then the Democratic chances would be brighter.

Fellow Americans have sympathy for Eagleton, especially because he stood up manfully and told of his physical troubles. But he should get off the ticket for his own good. He's allied with a man of disaster—a disaster capable of overturning party control in both houses of Congress.

America can give the benefit of the doubt to one man on a party ticket—but not two.

Workmen's compensation is criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government commission Sunday criticized workmen's compensation in the 50 states and recommended broader coverage and higher benefits.

It urged that Congress set minimum national-workmen's compensation standards for all employers. It said that in most states maximum weekly benefits for a nonfarm family of four are below the poverty level.

The report on workmen's compensation was prepared by a 15-member commission appointed by President Nixon and headed by John F. Burton Jr., a University of Chicago economist.

It recommended against a federal takeover of the compensation programs, which now are administered by the states. The programs require that employers compensate employees and their families for work time lost because of job-related injuries.

Workmen's-compensation insurance usually is purchased by the employers from private insurance companies.

The commission said, however, that payments usually are too low, with a majority of those who qualify receiving less than two-thirds of their lost wages.

It said coverage extends to only about 85 per cent of workers.

Blacks feel Sen. Eagleton has 'got to go'

CHICAGO (AP) — Nine black leaders who held a secret caucus here have agreed that Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton should step down as the Democratic candidate for vice president.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson said after the Sunday night meeting that the group had concluded that "blacks feel that Sen. Eagleton has got to go."

Jackson, president of Operation PUSH (People United to Save Humanity), last week called on Eagleton to get off the ticket after the Missouri senator disclosed that he had been hospitalized three times for psychological therapy.

Dr. Carlton Goodlett, president of the National Negro Publishers' Association, said Eagleton's failure to tell Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, of his previous psychiatric history weakens the ticket's image on the "credibility issue."

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, said the meeting was called to show support for Jackson.

Jackson was a leader of the challenge delegation which ousted Daley and 58 other uncommitted Illinois delegates from their seats at the Democratic National Convention.

Stokes said Jackson's victory at the Miami convention was "symptomatic of nationwide black political assertiveness. Those of us who are part of that movement insist that his achievements not be violated."

British occupy IRA strongholds

LONDON (AP) — British troops and armor occupied barricaded strongholds of the Irish Republican Army early today and encountered almost no resistance. But the IRA struck back later with bombs that killed at least six civilians. Striking at 4 a.m., 13,000 British soldiers smashed down IRA barricades with tanks converted to bulldozers and took possession of Catholic areas of Londonderry, Belfast, Lurgan, Armagh, Portadown, Coalisland and Dungannon.

By noon, reports were coming in of bombings in Londonderry and other towns. In Claudy, 12 miles southeast of Londonderry, six persons were killed when bombs planted in three cars exploded in the main street.

Army officers believed most of the IRA gunmen had gone underground in the countryside or fled across the border to the Irish Republic.

Three hours after the troops breached the first barricades, William Whitelaw, the British administrator for Northern Ireland, announced: "The British army are now in occupation and control throughout Northern Ireland."

An army spokesman said the troops suffered no casualties but shot four gunmen during the night. The bodies of two men were brought to a Londonderry hospital.

It was the biggest military offensive in the three years of religious warfare in Northern Ireland.

The Catholics stayed inside their homes as the troops entered the "Free Derry" enclaves in Londonderry for the first time in more than a year. But after dawn they began to come out.

Children taunted the soldiers with cries of "Pigs!" "English bastards," and "Leave us alone."

Outside a church, a crowd of women who had attended Mass shouted at a convoy roaring past: "We'll rise again and you'll know about it."

The IRA in Londonderry was outnumbered 50 to 1 by the troops.

Striking longshoremen are campaigning for demands

LONDON (AP) — Striking longshoremen streamed from Britain's idle ports into London today to campaign for their job security demands in a labor crisis threatening to cause food shortages within this week.

Prime Minister Edward Heath scheduled talks on the crisis Tuesday with leaders of the Trades Union Congress, Britain's labor federation.

Their main topic will be the new labor relations act to which the unions are opposed. Last week longshoremen, miners, transport workers and other employees stopped work in protest against the law. When the other unions went back to work, the dock workers stayed out and rejected a new wage-and-security work contract.

Crowds of dockers assembled in London to lobby at the talks already started between their leaders and port officials. If these talks failed to bring an early settlement, the government was expected to take emergency measures to move essential supplies.

Talks with the port officials centered on the longshoremen's fear about job security in the era of containerized cargo. Containerization has caused thousands of layoffs on British waterfronts in the past few years.

Strikes protesting the industrial relations act broke out in other areas. About 2,000 workers at the upper Clyde shipyards in Glasgow stopped work for the day. A strike by lithographic workers threatened to deprive newspapers of photographs.

Despite the government's stated refusal to amend or suspend the Industrial Relations Act, Heath and his ministers were expected to work out a conciliatory policy.

Monday morning blahs: ...or 'The second time around'

It was a bad morning for Lewis E. Brantley of Rosston. At 7:50 a.m., Brantley, 71, backed out of a parking place on South Main St., — and backed into a car driven by Mrs. A. R. Trout.

Minor damage occurred to both cars, and City Policeman Joe McCulley was the investigating officer. The left rear of Brantley's pickup was damaged.

At 8:20 a.m., Brantley backed out of a parking place on Elm St. — and backed into a car driven by Mrs. Maybell McLemore. Minor damage occurred to both cars (the right rear of Brantley's pickup was damaged) and McCulley was the investigating officer.

Brantley was ticketed with failure to yield right-of-way the second time around.

End to Marine segregation ordered

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Robert E. Cushman Jr., the Marine commandant, has ordered an end to "voluntary segregation" practices which have grown up in the corps.

"No racial segregation is to be permitted in the barracks or other living areas," Cushman said in a letter to all Marine generals and commanding officers.

"This includes voluntary segregation which extends beyond a reasonable request by a few friends to bunk together."

Marine sources explained that some unit commanders have allowed black and white servicemen to separate into racial groups living in different parts of their barracks.

As a result, the sources said, racial polarization has deepened and on occasion black and white factions have squared off against each other.

"Violence by Marines both on and off base must be stopped," the Marine commandant said. "The responsibility of leadership makes it mandatory that every effort be made to prevent acts of violence."

At the same time, Cushman called on his commanders to be "tough, aggressive, and demanding in eliminating racially segregated bars, liberty 'hangouts,' restaurants, etc." by placing them out of bounds to Marines.

The commandant emphasized that a unit leader's future in the Corps may well be influenced by how he performs in assuring equal treatment and opportunity for subordinates.

Effective immediately, Cushman directed, "fitness reports will include a statement of the officer's or staff noncommissioned officer's contribution and leadership in human relations."

In the same letter, he ordered a series of actions designed to eliminate grounds for complaint by blacks and other Marines alleging discriminatory treatment.

"Quotas for transfer will be filled in such manner that all will share equally with respect to the individual Marine's ability, personal desires and desirability of the assignment," Cushman wrote.

Also, Cushman said that punishments and work details handed out to individual Marines will be made public at daily formations.

This publicity appears aimed at minimizing the possibility that certain Marines will be picked on by vindictive or prejudiced commanders.

American Party platform committee meets to draft antibusing measure

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The American Party's platform committee meets tonight to start drafting, among other things, a specific proposal to halt school busing.

William Shearer of La Mesa, Calif., cochairman of the committee, said he was not sure whether the final proposal will call for a constitutional amendment prohibiting busing or a federal law achieving the same goal.

He said Alabama Gov. George Wallace has endorsed the constitutional route, yet also has said an amendment takes a long time.

"And of course if you try a federal statute you're not sure it will work," he said.

Another key proposal before the platform committee will be the election of U. S. Supreme Court justices.

Shearer said "periodic confrontation with voters" is necessary to "oust those who run roughshod" over the Constitution.

The cochairman also indicated he would try to insert a "negative stand" against President Nixon's attempt to improve relations with Red China and Soviet Russia—on the ground it is premature while those countries aid North Vietnam.

The platform and credentials committees will meet for the next three days. The American Party convention starts Thursday and ends Saturday night.

About 2,000 delegates and alternates from 45 states are expected for the proceedings in Freedom Hall at the State Fairgrounds a few miles south of downtown Louisville.

Wallace's announcement saying he would not head a third party ticket in November left delegates with the option of trying to draft him or turning to other prospects.

The American Party was formed in 1969 from groups which supported the Alabama governor's presidential bid in 1968.

Some insiders said a draft appeared unlikely and that U.S. Rep. John Schmitz of California, defeated for renomination last month in a Republican primary, had the inside track for the nomination Friday.

Schmitz, from Santa Ana is a member of the John Birch Society. He is a 41-year-old former Marine pilot.

Schmitz congressional office at Washington said he would attend at least part of the convention.

U.S. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, another presidential prospect, is scheduled to address delegates Friday.

The 56-year-old former governor is a conservative Democrat who shares many of Wallace's views.

GOP has Senate chance

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Republicans have an outside chance to capture the Senate majority next fall but no hopes in the House, according to the Ripon Society, a progressive GOP organization based here.

A national survey, reported in the July issue of the Ripon Forum, said President Nixon holds a commanding lead for re-election and is a clear favorite to win in 35 states.

The report noted, however, that "the President has always run well in the summer ... and done considerably worse in November."

It said the President's chances are subject to the "charisma of the McGovern crusade into the Promised Land, anticipated Democratic voter registration drive, the progress of the war and the economy, voter reaction to the President's stand on school busing and the proven ability of Nixon campaign organizations to reduce commanding leads."

The survey report said the GOP has chances of picking up Senate seats in New Mexico, Rhode Island, Oklahoma and North Carolina.

Dr. Capps guest speaker

The Spiritual Explosion known as Expro '72 that was held in Dallas in June was discussed by Dr. Bill Capps at the Hope Rotary Club luncheon meeting in the Town and Country Friday.

As the Expro delegates, arrived, they heard "something historic is going to happen here." The purpose of the gathering of the non-denominational group was "to train people to share their Christianity with others," Dr. Capps said, it is felt that they will be able to fulfill a great commission through the multiplication factor by 1980.

Club President Bob Roberts conducted the business meeting and welcomed two visiting Rotarians, Jimmie Ligon of Conway and Alex Gettie of Camden, and one other guest, the Rev. Norris Steele.

Death announcement first step in master China plan

TOKYO (AP) — The belated confirmation of the death of Lin Biao, the man once designated to succeed Mao Tse-tung, suggests that the Chinese Communist leadership is preparing to set its political house in order.

The first move could come Tuesday — Army Day — with announcement of Lin's successor as defense minister. The most likely candidate is Yeh Chien-ying, 73, Premier Chou En-lai's right-hand man.

Another prospect for the weeks ahead is a session of the national party congress to fill the gaps in the leadership. Lin was deputy chairman and member of the powerful standing committee of the Politburo. With the disappearance, and presumed purge, of Chen Po-ta and the illness of Kang Sheng, this critical body now is down to two members — Mao and Chou.

The Politburo itself needs to be replenished. Lin's wife, Yeh Chun, who was a member, is said to have been among those who perished in the plane crash Sept. 12 with her husband. Other vacancies have been created by the purge of army chief of staff Juang Yung-sheng, air force commander Wu Fa-hsien and Li Tso-peng, the navy's political commissar.

The congress would also presumably strike out the portion of the 1969 party constitution which named Lin as Mao's heir.

Yeh Chien-ying has been actively involved in the new policy of rapprochement with the United States. He took part in the first talks with Henry Kissinger and was prominent during President Nixon's visit to Peking.

It would be peculiarly appropriate if he were named defense minister during the Army Day celebrations. He took part in the planning of the uprising in Nanhang on Aug. 1, 1927, which gave birth to the Red Army. After it was put down, he fled with Chou to Hong Kong and helped nurse the future premier.

Unauthorized vehicles parking behind the school administration building will be ticketed after today, according to Jimmy Jones, school superintendent. Jones said the space must be reserved for authorized vehicles and persons having business with school officials.

Wendel McCorkie has been elected to membership to State College of Arkansas' Phi Delta Kappa, an international professional education fraternity for men. He will also be a candidate for a M.S.E. degree in education at summer commencement.

"Ranger Jim" Martin, Specialist, Environmental Conservation, Department of Education, will give an overview of environmental problems and what can be done toward improving the environment at the Hope Rotary Club meeting Friday. This presentation is part of "Man and His Environment" services developed by the Department of Education.

Spassky calls postponement

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — World champion Boris Spassky took a rest from the international chess title game Sunday, pleading a cold. The ninth game with American Bobby Fischer now is scheduled to be played Tuesday.

The Russians asked for a postponement half an hour before the noon deadline and delivered a medical certificate to referee Lothar Schmid. Three such postponements are allowed each player in the 24-game series.

The Russians said they did not know whether a further two-day postponement would be asked for Tuesday.

Three planes down in VN, Thailand

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. B52 bomber crashed Sunday night during a thunderstorm in north-east Thailand, and two Air Force F4 Phantoms went down off the coast of North Vietnam after running out of fuel, the U.S. Command announced today.

The U.S. Embassy in Bangkok said five of the six B52 crewmen were killed. It said the sixth man was picked up by a rescue helicopter today.

The command in Saigon said the four Phantom crewmen also were rescued.

The cause of the B52 crash was not known. The plane was on its way to a bombing attack in Vietnam, and the 30 tons of bombs aboard exploded in the crash, creating a huge fireball, sources in Bangkok said. But an embassy spokesman said there were no known civilian casualties or damage to property.

It was the second B52 crash in Thailand since the big bombers were first stationed there in 1967.

North Vietnam claimed that two Air Force Phantoms were shot down over Hanoi on Sunday, and two of the crewmen were captured. It did not identify the Americans but said one of them was wounded in his left leg and his temple.

The U.S. Command reported no losses in the Hanoi region. It said one of the Phantoms that crashed in the Tonkin Gulf ran out of fuel while maneuvering to avoid a MIG jet, while the second F4 that crashed had failed — for reasons not known to the command — to rendezvous with its refueling tanker.

The command reported also that American jets hit North Vietnam's Red River delta again Sunday, but it denied charges by Hanoi that flood control facilities were attacked deliberately on Saturday.

In Sunday's raids, North Vietnam claimed that American planes bombed a populated area six miles from the center of Hanoi and residential areas in Haiphong and its outskirts.

U.S. spokesmen in Saigon, queried about the Hanoi allegations of bombing dikes, said they had nothing to add to statements by President Nixon last week and an intelligence study of North Vietnam's dike system released by the U.S. State Department.

Nixon said it has never been the policy of the United States to bomb the dikes and would not be in the future. The State Department said intelligence reports showed conclusively that there had been no intentional bombing of the dikes but that a few of them sustained minor damage from stray bombs directed at nearby military targets.

U.S. Air Force Phantoms escorted bombers on strikes against the northeast railroad between Hanoi and China on Saturday shot down two MIG21 interceptors in a dogfight 35 miles northeast of the North Vietnamese capital, the U.S. Command said.

'Mr. Europe' is dead

BRUSSELS (AP) — Paul Henri Spaak, Belgian Socialist leader and one of the architects of European unity and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, died early today at the age of 73, it was officially announced.

Death was attributed to a kidney deficiency.

Spaak was known as "Mr. Europe" for his work for European unity and also played a leading part at the founding meeting of the United Nations in San Francisco in 1945. He became the first president of the U.N. General Assembly in 1946 and in 1970 came out of retirement to attend the 25th anniversary meeting of the world organization in New York.

When he retired from public life at the age of 67 in 1966, the Belgian statesman had been premier twice and foreign minister six times.

A power in Europe for 34 years, Spaak once said: "I was told that I look like Churchill and speak English like Charles Boyer. Of course, I would rather speak English like Churchill and look like Charles Boyer."

He spent his life fighting nationalism, which he considered an evil that had divided Europe for centuries. He was also a big man physically, carrying 230 pounds on a 6-foot frame.

Spaak was a principal founder of the European Common Market and over the years continued to predict a united Europe despite traditional hostility, fear and the policies of the late President Charles de Gaulle.

During World War I, Spaak spent two years in a German prison camp. After the war, he plunged into law studies, finishing a five-year course in 2½ years.

A Socialist, he became the youngest premier in Belgian history in 1938, when he was 39. Spaak was born into a family of celebrities. His mother was Belgium's first woman senator and his father was a well known lawyer, poet and playwright.

His first wife, Marguerite Malevy, the daughter of a wealthy industrialist, died in 1964 after 42 years of marriage. They had three children. He remarried in 1965.

SAM question on tap today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate was expected today to decide whether to end the Army's $5.2 billion SAM-D anti-aircraft missile program during consideration of the Pentagon's $20.5 billion weapons procurement bill.

The tight three-day schedule on the bill will bring another fight on end-the-war amendments Wednesday, with other amendments contemplated to end the bombing, the draft and to increase military retirement pay.

The SAM-D project provides $171 million for engineering in the bill and some $400 million has been spent on it already. With procurement, cost of the project is estimated at $5.2 billion.

'Papers' trial stalled over wiretapping

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Pentagon Papers trial is stalled over a complicated wiretapping issue, and the defense says it will oppose any government attempt to cancel a delay that has been granted in the case.

"There is a profoundly important constitutional question," U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said in granting the 30-day delay.

The Justice Department said it would petition the Supreme Court to set aside Douglas' ruling.

The delay was to give the defense time to ask the full Supreme Court for a review of defense claims that wiretapping information should be revealed in open court.

The Supreme Court is on vacation and not scheduled to meet again until October. The U. S. solicitor general, Erwin Griswold, said after Douglas' ruling Saturday that he would not ask the court to reconvene but would "leave it up to the chief justice on how he wants to handle it."

The government charges

Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo with espionage, theft and conspiracy in connection with the leak to newspapers of the classified Pentagon Papers, which concern U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The defense contends that officials routinely leak classified material to newsmen and that Ellsberg and Russo, former Rand Corp. researchers, are being prosecuted because of their antiwar views.

Ladies host shower for Miss Jones

On Friday, July 21, the ladies of the First Assembly of God Church of Hope entertained at a miscellaneous shower for Miss Marlene Jones, bride-elect of Ted W. Legatski II of Bartlesville, Okla.

Silver candlesticks and an arrangement of daisies in a silver bowl adorned the serving table which was spread with a floor-length green, lace-trimmed, lined cloth. Miss Jones received a corsage of white carnations.

Cookies, frosted punch and nuts were served to 35 guests.

The wedding of Miss Jones and Mr. Legatski will be an event of August 5 at 2 p.m. in the First Assembly of God Church.

Fresh Plum Sundae

2 pounds fresh California plums
1 stick cinnamon
1 cup water
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 quart vanilla ice cream or lemon sherbet

Cut plums into eighths, reserving one cup. Place remaining plums and cinnamon in saucepan, cover with water. Cook 10 minutes, covered. Mix together sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add to plum sauce. Return to heat and cook until sauce is clear, about five minutes. Remove cinnamon, add butter and balance of sliced plums. Serve hot or cold over ice cream. Makes 8 servings.

Dry Shampoo

Busy women should invest in a dry shampoo for last-minute appointments, unexpected dates or just to tide you over until your regular shampoo.

Cover Ups

Fringed capes can be worn with just about anything. Over beachwear, halter tops or evening dresses, capes or shawls are the least expensive ways to cover up.

Fall prints boast summer shades

PARIS (AP) — The coutute collections began today, and the designers all are talking nothing but elegance, but at least one of them likes the elegance that most people call "kitsch."

Louis Feraud, who showed this afternoon, believes in bright colors and a sense of humor. His winter prints, as always designed specially by Per Spook, are in summer shades, turquoise with fuchsia, or electric blue and green by themselves.

Otherwise, it's awning stripes in black and white. He also has straight skirts, long blazers, striped as well but in green or shocking pink on black. With such blatant streetwalker-type outfits go opaque black tights, a black fox boa and a knitted cloche.

For evening, Feraud unleashes his imagination. The very long or very short black dresses are in shiny jersey with garish foliage. So are the elasticized berets. And these are the most demure of his dresses.

Black satin sheaths are bare on top, with straps all over, and really stick to your hips. Feraud's "idiot dresses," in contrast, are nothing but ruffles, in black or white piped in red, and garnished with velvet roses. Some are in vinyl, for outdoor evenings.

Keep Secrets to Yourself

HELEN BOTTEL

Husband's Plait—or Excuse?

Dear Helen:
My wife belittles me and makes me look ridiculous in front of company. She criticizes me to the children. Says I do the same to her, but should I just sit there and take it? She hacks away at my manhood, never missing a chance to twist the knife.

Then she expects me to get excited just because she appears in a sexy nightgown and a receptive mood. If I can't, she says I'm a pansy—when she's not suspecting an affair with another woman.

Would you please tell wives, Helen, that "the body has a head"? I can't forget her meanness that soon.

The more she nags, the less our sex life. The less our sex life, the more she cuts me up. She thinks I'm using her "bitchiness" as an excuse. I say a man can't perform if he is constantly put down.

Won't someone get through to women that half of man's impotency problems are of their making? —EMASULATED

Dear Emasculated:
Emasculating women are seldom perceptive. They don't realize that males are often victims of the sensitivity they're programmed to hide...or perhaps they DO sense this and take advantage.

On the other hand, men worried about their potency sometimes read a putdown in every little remark. They may even subconsciously welcome fights because they provide an excuse not to try—and fail.

Whichever, you're in a vicious circle here, and the only way out is via self-understanding. When you two can talk without blaming, you may learn what's behind the nags and slashes (insecurity, competition, envy, "getting even," disillusionment, plain old female bossiness or male mulishness). Only then can you work to change things. It will probably take the help of a very perceptive marriage counselor.—H.

Dear Helen:
My husband is a secret smoker, and I say this is worse than a secret eater, and almost as bad as a secret drinker.

He told us he quit and he never smokes around me or the children, but I smell tobacco in the car and on his clothes, and he gets increasingly irritable through the evening. On weekends he finds excuses to leave for a while, and I know he lights up the minute he's out of our sight—and can find a cigarette.

I hate lying—even more than I dislike tobacco. I've told him to smoke in front of us but he'd rather pretend. How can I stop this subterfuge?—WIFE OF A DIFFERENT KIND OF CHEATER

DEAR WIFE:
Perhaps this is your husband's way of "cutting down," so don't knock it. Substitute praise for suspicion. Let him know you appreciate his efforts—and a few cigarettes at the office are better than a tray of stubs at home every night. They'll be much less irresistible when he realizes you don't condemn him for every puff.—H.

DEAR HELEN:
My son brought home his fiancée who seemed to be a nice girl. She told me she is a model. Well, I finally saw some of her pictures and Helen, she models very brief underwear. One shot was of her in a bath tub and I'll bet she didn't have a stitch on! I didn't bring my son up to be worldly, and am shocked. Do

MRS. FRED EDWIN FORE

Miss Echols becomes bride of Mr. Fore

Frances Elaine Echols became the bride of Fred Edwin Fore in a semi-formal double ring ceremony, Friday evening, July 21, in the First Methodist Church in Cooper, Texas. Vows were exchanged before the Eld. James Westbrook.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Preston Echols of Cooper and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fore of Rosston.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of silk crepe under a pinafore of sheer embroidered organza and carried a white straw basket filled with asters and mixed summer flowers, all white. The chapel was also beautifully adorned with a mixture of summer flowers in an array of colors all grown in the family garden.

Mrs. Keith Miller of Commerce, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Carol Bond of Cooper served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Amy Echols, sister of the bride, and Sandra Young both of Cooper.

Bill Fore served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Eldon Bond, Robert Echols, brother of the bride, and Stephen Fore, brother of the groom. Candelighters were Teresa Bond of Paris, Texas and Edward Bond of Cooper.

The wedding music was presented by Mrs. Richard Tatam, Oscar Janes, and Jon Scott all of Cooper. Lucia Henson of Cooper presented a poem from an apache wedding ceremony.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained guests with a reception honoring the newlyweds in Fellowship Hall.

After a wedding trip to Hot Springs the couple will be at home in Hope.

Friday Bridge club meets

Mrs. Tom Kinser entertained the Friday Bridge Club on July 28. Red roses made a pretty setting for the two tables of players. High scorers were Mrs. R. E. Jackson and Mrs. C. C. Lewis.

In addition to the club members, other guests were Mrs. B. C. Hyatt, Mrs. F. R. Moses and Mrs. Rob Jones. For refreshments, dessert and punch were served.

Puree brings out best

Six-Vegetable Puree goes with any meat or fish dish.

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Pureeing vegetables is a common practice in France. Pureeing eliminates vegetable fibers which have no flavor or nutritive value. To puree, use a food mill that forces the flavorful part of such vegetables as corn, peas and lima beans through the mill and holds back the fibers. A food mill also strains the blended vegetables, which pureeing in a blender does not. This recipe for a Six-Vegetable Puree is seasoned with herbs. For those who do not like herb seasoning, a little salt and pepper will do. Those on a salt-free diet should eliminate salt in the cooking water and in seasoning and season with herbs only. This is a dish that can be made in advance for an outdoor barbecue.

SIX-VEGETABLE PUREE

1 1/2 cups butter or margarine
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped onion
1 1/2 teaspoons dried lemon thyme leaves
1 teaspoon dried basil leaves
1/2 teaspoon dried tarragon leaves
2 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1 (10-oz.) package frozen Fordhook lima beans
1 (10-oz.) package frozen corn
1 (10-oz.) package frozen peas and carrots

Salt and pepper to taste

Melt butter in a saucepan or small skillet. Add celery, onion, thyme, basil and tarragon. Cook over low heat until vegetables are very tender. Meanwhile, bring water to a boil in a large saucepan. Add beans and cook 5 minutes. Add corn and cook 5 minutes. Add peas and carrots and cook 5 minutes or until all vegetables are tender and water is absorbed. Stir in celery and onion mixture. Puree vegetables through food mill into a saucepan. Cook puree over low heat until thick and hot. Taste and add salt and pepper as desired. Makes about 2 1/4 quarts or 6 servings.

Chris Everet defeats Goolagong

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Australians won the inaugural Bonne Bell Cup matches over the United States over the weekend, but surrendered some of the glory when Floridan Chris Everet triumphed over Evonne Goolagong.

The seemingly nerveless teen-ager fired a butchering volley of deep court shots at Miss Goolagong to win the third set of their match 6-0 after capturing the first set 6-3 and losing the second 4-6.

Miss Everet, who had lost to Miss Goolagong in the semi-finals at Wimbledon this year, said after the match she'll turn professional "whenever I can." Rules allow it on her 18th birthday on Dec. 21.

The Fort Lauderdale high school senior, who might have been one of the richest teenagers in sports history had she been able to claim prize money for some of her triumphs over the last year, doesn't see herself changing her values when she turns pro.

"I hope I never play just for money," she said. "I think that would be stupid."

Her drawing power is undeniable. A crowd of 7,428 watched Sunday's final three matches in the Bonne Bell and a total of 20,936 saw the three-day event, both records for women's tennis matches in Cleveland. And, as at Forest

CHRIS EVERET

Hills last summer and at Wimbledon this year, a great number of the fans were present just to see her.

Miss Everet, who conquered Margaret Court of Australia 6-3, 6-3 on Friday, stayed in the backcourt and made Miss Goolagong trade shots with her until the Australian erred.

Miss Everet's victories were the only ones mustered by the United States in the best-of-seven event. Mrs. Court halted Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego, Calif., 6-1, 6-1 and the doubles team of Kerry Melville and Mrs. Court whipped Miss Ziegenfuss and Wendy Overton 6-1, 6-2 in other matches Sunday.

Livingston's efforts spark win for Chiefs

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Mike Livingston may have moved the Kansas City Chiefs to a 23-17 Hall of Fame victory over the New York Giants, but he still will have to be satisfied with the role of substitute.

Livingston, a backup man for the National Football League Chiefs' Len Dawson, ran 39 yards for one touchdown and passed seven yards for a second. His efforts sparked the Chiefs to a come-from-behind triumph over the NFL Giants Saturday.

And, despite a so-so performance by Randy Johnson, he also seems firmly entrenched in his quarterbacking job with the Giants.

"Dawson's still the regular despite Mike Livingston's performance," Kansas City coach Hank Stram said after the game.

His words were echoed by Giants mentor Alex Webster who said "Johnson still is our No. 1 quarterback" after the first meeting of the teams this season.

Dawson managed only 97 passing yards on 8 of 15 and couldn't move the Chiefs with any consistency in the first half. They trailed the Giants 10-6 at halftime.

Johnson, expected to replace Fran Tarkenton at the Giants' helm, managed 106 aerial yards on 10 of 18. The ex-Atlanta Falcon passed three yards to Charlie Evans for a touchdown, too.

Jan Stenerud booted field goals of 37, 43 and 14 yards for Kansas City.

Pirates rout Phillies 7-1

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates wouldn't mind having a little fun but the San Diego Padres would just like a little rest.

The Pirates scored all their runs in the last two innings Sunday to rout Philadelphia 7-1 and maintain their National League East lead at seven games over the New York Mets, who shaded Montreal 3-1.

"If we continue to get the pitching, we're going to have a lot of fun in the second half," said Richie Hebner, who hit a tie-breaking three-run homer as the Pirates scored four times in the eighth inning.

Meanwhile, the Padres, who went 17 innings Saturday evening to defeat Cincinnati, split an extra-inning doubleheader with Houston, winning the opener 10-7 in 14 innings but dropping the nightcap 4-3 in 10.

Elsewhere, the Reds blanked San Francisco 4-0 before losing the second game 6-1 in 10 innings. Atlanta took two from Los Angeles 14-4 and 5-4 and the Chicago Cubs swept St. Louis 4-0 and 5-4.

In the American League, Detroit beat Boston 7-2 after losing the first game 4-3, Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 5-0, Texas won a pair from Oakland 2-1 and 4-2, Minnesota edged the Chicago White Sox 1-0, Cleveland took two from Milwaukee 3-2 and 6-1 and California topped Kansas City 4-3 in 11 innings.

Pittsburgh's Bruce Kison and Philadelphia's Barry Lersch were locked in a scoreless duel until the Phillies took a 1-0 lead in the seventh on Greg Luzinski's triple and a single by Willie Montanez.

But Gene Clines opened the Pirates' eighth with an infield hit and scored on Al Oliver's two-out double. Dick Selma relieved Lersch and promptly uncorked a wild pitch, walked Manny Sanguillen and saw Hebner belt a three-run homer into the right field seats on the first pitch to him.

The Bucs tied off on Selma for three more runs in the ninth on Gene Alley's single, a sacrifice, a single by Clines, Dave Cash's triple and a single by Vic Davallilo.

San Diego's 41 innings in three consecutive overtime games matches the American League record but is well short of the NL mark. But the last-place Padres are enjoying giving the contenders a hard time. They took two from the Reds before coming to Houston.

The Padres pushed across three runs in the 14th to win the opener. Derrel Thomas singled home the tie-breaking run and Dave Roberts, who hit a three-run homer earlier, singled in two more. Houston won the nightcap on Jimmy Stewart's bases-loaded single in the 10th, negating two home runs by San Diego's Nate Colbert, who tied Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox for the major league lead with 25.

U.S. diving team is 'toughest ever'

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States today had its smallest women's entry in history and a strong men's squad featuring iron-man Mike Finnen headed for the diving competition in the Munich Olympics starting Aug. 26.

"We may be small, but this is the toughest all-around diving squad we've ever had," said Hobie Billingsley of Indiana University, the Olympic men's diving coach. "The trouble is, both our guys and gals are going to face just about the toughest foreign competition."

The U.S. diving team, normally composed of six men and six women for the Olympic springboard and platform events, will send only five men and three women to Munich.

A three-day final trials session ended Sunday at Oakton Pool in suburban Park Ridge with the threesome of Janet Ely, 18, Albuquerque, N.M., Cindy Potter, 21, of Houston, Tex., and Olympian Micki King.

Texas partners score Team Golf victory

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — "Great—just absolutely great," Kermit Zarley replied when asked how it felt for him and partner Babe Hisey to break the Arnold Palmer-Jack Nicklaus domination of the Professional Golfers Association National Team Championship.

"But, you know," Zarley reflected, "they probably would have won again if they teed up."

The longshot partners, close friends since their college days at the University of Houston a decade ago, forged a better-ball score of 66, five under par, in the final round to score an easy victory Sunday.

Their 262 total was 22 strokes under par on the 7,045-yard Laurel Valley Golf Club, Palmer's home course where he and Nicklaus had combined to win the two previous team crowns.

Nicklaus withdrew this year because of a badly infected finger. Palmer tapped obscure Jack Lewis, 25, as a last-minute replacement and they were never a factor. They had to rally for a final-round 70 and were a distant 13 strokes back at 275.

Hisey and Zarley moved into a share of the lead after 36 holes, took sole control at the end of the third round and weren't headed as they strolled in with a relatively unexciting triumph.

Johnny Miller and Grier Jones, a pair of 25-year-olds, made the only major challenge in the final round that began in drizzling rain and finished in cool and cloudy weather.

They combined for an eight-under-par 63 and took second alone at 265. Gibby Gilbert and Lanny Wadkins, just one stroke off the pace going into the final 18 holes, couldn't get anything going. They finished with a 69 and third at 266.

Tommy Aaron and former Masters champion Charles Coody were next with a 64-267.

Hisey and Zarley, both members of a Bible study group that meets weekly on the pro tour, have had long years of struggle.

Each has won only twice in 10 years. Hisey ranked 100th on the season's money list going into this tournament with only $13,000.

But they combined almost perfectly here, each picking up $20,000 from a total purse of $200,000. They had 23 birdies in the four rounds, 16 by Hisey, and a single bogey. In the team event the score is kept only on the team's better ball on each hole.

"It's kind of easy to win when your partner is always on the green, 15 or 20 feet from the hole," Hisey said. "When he's in that position you can really go for the pin and try to make birdie."

NAIA announces suspension

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Oregon College of Education baseball team has been suspended for all National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics competition beyond the conference level for the next three years.

The NAIA announced the suspension Saturday. The suspension became effective July 26 and resulted from unsportsmanlike conduct of the school's players and fans during the NAIA Area I baseball playoffs in Portland, Ore., May 24-26.

The suspension is for baseball only, said Dr. Paul Pierce, chairman of the NAIA Conduct of Athletics Committee.

Birthday celebrations: Casey Stengel style

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP) — "I was born July 30, 1890, in Kansas City, Mo.," said Casey Stengel.

That date made him 82 when he observed his birthday at his home here Sunday.

It also represented one of the shortest complete, absolutely coherent sentences Charles Dillon Stengel, a baseball Hall of Famer, has ever uttered.

Casey said he was aware that some baseball record books list him as having been born in 1889.

Dates other than July 30 are also listed. In typical Stengel fashion, however, he has an explanation for the seeming confusion, and if anyone can confuse the confusing, Casey is the man.

"When I was a young man of fine looks," began Casey, elaborately palming back his ice-white locks, "I used to look at the schedule ..."

He meant the baseball schedule, of course.

"In those days we'd hit a town for three or four days, and if my birthday was approaching, I'd see that it was observed in one of several cities."

"Once in Kansas City, they baked a big cake which was so big they had to haul it to the ballpark in a truck. Now things weren't doing so good in Kansas City so they offered everybody a piece of cake if they'd come to the ballpark."

Shakedown starts in pro football

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The real shakedown period starts in pro football this week as the pre-season exhibition schedule goes into high gear.

A total of 12 exhibitions are listed for the weekend following the official opening last Friday when the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys whipped the College All-Stars 20-7 in Chicago and the Kansas City Chiefs defeated the New York Giants 23-17 in the Hall of Fame game at Canton, Ohio, Saturday.

Three of the 12 games this week are slated for Friday night with Baltimore vs. Washington at Tampa, Fla., Buffalo vs. St. Louis at Buffalo, N.Y. and Los Angeles vs. Cleveland at Los Angeles.

Eight games are listed for Saturday, starting with an afternoon game at South Bend, Ind. between Kansas City and Chicago.

The other Saturday games, all after dark, list Green Bay vs. Cincinnati at Green Bay, Dallas vs. Houston at Dallas, Detroit vs. Miami at Detroit, Oakland vs. New England at Oakland, New York Jets vs. San Francisco at Jacksonville, Fla., Pittsburgh vs. the New York Giants at Pittsburgh and San Diego vs. Atlanta at San Diego. Rounding out the schedule is an Aug. 7, Monday night game, with New Orleans at Philadelphia.

Gene Washington, Clint Jones and Charlie West, three veteran Minnesota players who said last week they would not sign unless each was satisfied, came to terms Sunday with the Vikings. "I think we may have had a little misunderstanding," said Jones, a running back. "We didn't want to sign a package deal, one contract for the three of us. Once we cleared this problem up, it was just a matter of working out the contracts."

Washington is a wide receiver and West a safety.

Elsewhere on Sunday, quarterback Roman Gabriel took part in light workouts with the Los Angeles Rams for the first time since he suffered a collapsed lung several weeks ago and quarterback Jim Hart of St. Louis learned he had a slight shoulder separation that will sideline him for three to six weeks.

Cardinal punter turns to medicine

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Chuck Latourette likes football, but he'd rather be a doctor and has reached the decision the latter is more important than the former.

Latourette, just 27 and the punter for the National Football League St. Louis Cardinals the past five seasons, remains in Memphis rather than at the Cardinals' training camp, now in its third week.

"Well, it's always been my intention to be a doctor," he said Sunday. "It wasn't any great crossroads decision (not to report)."

"It came time where I felt I needed to devote full time to medicine."

Latourette, a native of Jonesboro, Ark., is in his final semester of medical school at the University of Tennessee Colleges of Medicine in Memphis.

"I've got enough money ahead to carry me through," he said.

If everything goes right, he'll get his degree in December.

Latourette said he would like to continue in professional football, but not at the cost of endangering his dream since the ninth grade of being a doctor.

"I asked the Cardinals if they would let me play for them only on weekends," he said, "but they haven't been receptive to the idea. I haven't talked to them lately."

Latourette also said he has offered to play for the NFL minimum of $14,000 if the Cardinals would accept his proposal to work weekends. He made nearly double that last year.

"I'm not really sweating it," he said. "This football has been my life for 14 years and you hate to give it up."

He added, however, that "I proved I could play pro ball and being a doctor has always been my goal."

Latourette has been attending medical school every other six months, with the time between devoted to his football career.

The arrangement has existed since his 1968 graduation from Rice.

While it is Latourette's decision not to report to training camp, there have been reports that his relationship with new St. Louis Coach Bob Ollway has been cool since the closing game against Philadelphia.

Hollway said then that Latourette mishandled a snap and was tackled on the 10, setting up a touchdown that paved the way to a loss.

Latourette said of Hollway, "He's alienating a lot of the players."

Latourette said he has made his offer to play weekends to some other teams but has heard "nothing definite" from the feelers.

Amarillo Giants defeat Travelers

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — The Amarillo Giants scored three runs in the sixth inning and went on to beat the Arkansas Travelers 5-2 in Texas League Baseball action Sunday night.

Wilbur Wood was having trouble getting used to the Minnesota mound. But Tom Hilgendorf was delighted with the way he found the one in Cleveland.

"It took me quite a time to get adjusted to the mound," Wood, Chicago's knuckleballing veteran, said Sunday after trying—and failing—to become one of the winningest pitchers in the American League.

"It's no lower or no higher than any other mound, but it's flat, it doesn't drop off at all." What did drop, though, was one of Wood's less successful pitchers.

It dropped into the left field pavilion, 351 feet away from home plate, the end result of a Harmon Killebrew home run in the sixth inning that powered the Minnesota Twins to a 1-0 victory over the White Sox.

Hilgendorf, getting his first major league start as a new member of the Cleveland pitching staff, said he knew good times were ahead when he ambled out to the bullpen for some pregame warming up.

"I can tell just by walking out there," he said. "If the mound looks a long way away—then look out. But today it seemed close and I knew it was okay."

It was more than just okay. Hilgendorf hurled a six-hitter, striking out seven Milwaukee batters as the Indians beat the Brewers 6-1 to sweep a doubleheader. Cleveland had taken the opener 3-2.

In other American League games, Texas took two from Oakland, 2-1 and 4-2, Boston split a pair with Detroit, winning 4-3 before the Tigers took the second game 7-2, Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 5-0 and California defeated Kansas City 4-3 in 11 innings.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs swept St. Louis 4-0 and 5-4, Atlanta took two from Los Angeles 14-4 and 5-4, San Francisco and Cincinnati split the Reds winning 4-0 before the Giants took the 10-inning nightcap 6-1, San Diego and Houston also split with the Padres taking the 14-inning opener 10-7 before the Astros won the second game 4-3 in 10,

Kidnapped woman is released

By GENE LAHAMMER
Associated Press Writer
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Virginia Piper, the attractive socialite whose husband paid $1 million ransom to free her from kidnappers, dug at the ground with her bare hands while trying to free herself from a tree to which she had been chained in a forest.

"I wasn't actually in fear of my life until they left me on Friday," Mrs. Piper said. "Then I thought 'I'm chained to a tree here and they'll find me in November.'"

Mrs. Piper, who discussed the kidnapping at a news conference Sunday, said she then began digging in hopes of uprooting the six-inch-thick tree.

"I thought that the only way I could ever get out was to uproot the tree and fell it and lug the tree out to the highway. At least it kept me busy. I figured that by the end of the week, I would be able to dump that tree," she added.

The 49-year-old victim had some degree of mobility since the chain, which was strung around the tree from hand to hand, had a three-foot leeway.

Mrs. Piper recalled a bit of humor after she was found by FBI agents, who went to the scene after receiving an anonymous tip. The agents unlocked her handcuffs, but could not free her from the chain. So four agents bent the small tree to the ground and she was able to slip the chain over it.

"This is terribly funny, really—four of them jumped on the tree and swung it back and forth and got it down," Mrs. Piper said.

The kidnappers have not been caught.

Mrs. Piper's husband is Harry C. Piper, 54, board chairman of the investment and brokerage firm of Piper, Jaffray and Hopwood, Inc.

Piper told newsmen Sunday that the $1 million ransom in $20 bills that he delivered late Friday night was so heavy "that I could just barely lift it." The money reportedly weighed 115 pounds.

Mrs. Piper's ordeal began Thursday when two men burst into the fashionable Piper home in suburban Orono. Both wore black nylon masks over their heads and each had two pistols.

Mrs. Piper said the kidnappers put tape over her eyes, threw a pillow case over her head and ordered her to lie down in the back seat of a car while they drove her to wilderness area near Duluth, about 140 miles north of here.

The FBI, which has 100

agents working on the case, said it would have no comment on whether a third man was involved.

Mrs. Piper said she was not threatened or harmed and did not fear for her life until she was abandoned in the darkness of the forest Friday night.

The kidnappers left her "some pop, a few pieces of cheese and some soggy bread."

She was found about 12 hours later.

Undercover agent acted too realistic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A federal grand jury reconvenes at Kansas City, Mo. Tuesday to probe regional crime amid a disclosure that Dist. Atty. Frank Lewis Grayson in Oklahoma's Delaware County acted as if he were a corrupt official for seven months to prevent a crime syndicate invasion.

Grayson said that invasion was halted last March, and his role ended then when his sources dried up.

He may have been too convincing an actor, Grayson said, because the Kansas City grand jury looking into criminal activity in Northeast Oklahoma and possible links with Kansas City organized crime was interested in his activities. But he didn't think that possibility was very strong.

"Every move I made was reported to the federal crime strike force and to representatives of the state Crime Bureau," he said. "I did that from the beginning."

Another grand jury is to convene in Tulsa Aug. 7 to conduct a probe apparently similar to the Kansas City investigation.

Grayson took Miami, Okla., News-Record reporter Marie Niemi into his confidence in late March.

Miss Niemi said that in an effort to let it be known Grayson could be corrupted, he got publicly drunk several times and ordered charges of assaulting a police officer against a bartender dismissed and bond returned to the man.

A syndicate attempt to move into Grove, a resort area near Grand Lake, began late last year or early this year, Grayson said.

The Ferris wheel at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893 was the largest ever built. It had 36 cars and could carry 2,160 persons weighing a total of 150 tons.

Busing foes expected to be active in House

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Busing foes will be active in two House committees this week, trying to pry loose antibusing legislation while there is still time for Congress to pass it this year.

The Rules Committee has scheduled hearings aimed at getting a quick House vote on either a constitutional amendment outlawing busing, or on President Nixon's proposal for a temporary stay in new court-ordered busing.

Another bill, which would establish for the courts permanent desegregation guidelines that would sharply limit busing, is up for consideration in the Education and Labor Committee.

Both the constitutional amendment and the moratorium on new busing orders are bottled up in the Judiciary Committee, opposed by a majority of the committee members. But the Rules Committee has the power to take them away and send them to the House floor.

Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., chairman of the Rules Committee, hopes to convince a majority of his 15-member committee to vote with him this week to do just that. He would prefer to act on the constitutional amendment but will settle for what he can get.

If the Rules Committee does act, civil-rights supporters also hope it is on the constitutional amendment. A two-thirds majority in both the House and Senate would be required to pass it and they are confident no such majority could be mustered in the Senate.

The Nixon moratorium would prevent the federal courts from issuing any new busing orders until next June 30 in order to give Congress time to enact permanent legislation along the lines of that before the Education and Labor Committee.

Congress already has passed and Nixon has signed into law a bill having the same effect as the proposed moratorium. It prevents any court-ordered busing plans from going into operation until all appeals to higher courts have been exhausted. The law, which was just enacted last month, is now being tested in the courts.

In the Education and Labor Committee, an effort to add a $1.5-billion compensator provision to the antibusing guidelines threatens to complicate matters.

Nixon, who originally proposed the guidelines, included in his bill a provision that would target funds on ghetto schools as an alternative to desegregating them. But he didn't request any new money to carry out the program.

The entire section was dropped in subcommittee by an antibusing majority that feared it would slow action on the guidelines. Now it appears that some education provision will have to be restored if the full committee is going to approve any bill.

Farmer who found money hospitalized

PERU, Ind. (AP) — Five weeks ago today, Lowell Elliott, 64, a retired farmer, found $500,000 in a canvas bag in his son-in-law's soybean field.

Since then he has turned down a $10,000 reward, saying it wasn't enough; has received "hundreds" of harassing letters and telephone calls, and has been hospitalized for what doctors call strain.

"I wish he had never found the money," said Elliott's wife Mildred.

Elliott was enjoying retirement on his farm near here until June 26, when he went to investigate what he thought was a groundhog in his son-in-law's field.

What he found was a canvas mail bag containing $500,000 ransom money dropped by a skyjacker who bailed out over North Central Indiana two days earlier.

American Airlines offered Elliott a $10,000 reward for finding the money, but the Indiana farmer refused, saying he thought he should get at least five per cent of the loot, or $25,000. The original offer has remained open. Elliott has said he doesn't know if he will take it.

The Elliotts evaded newsmen and refused to answer their telephone since letters and phone calls followed his refusal of the $10,000.

"We've gotten hundreds of letters," Elliott said. "People are saying I'm a lousy person to represent the United States" for asking for more money.

Now Elliott is in Wabash County Hospital. His condition Sunday was listed as good.

Elliott was in the hospital about eight weeks last fall because of a heart attack, and he still was under doctor's care when he became the center of attention after finding the money.

His wife said his current illness "acted just like his heart attack" but she didn't know whether the pressure following his discovery of the money caused it.

Mrs. Elliott said, "Life was so peaceful and nice before this happened. I just hope it can be that way again."

Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP) — For nearly five years wholesale and retail prices rose in tandem, with the former rather accurately forecasting the latter by a month or more.

Now they're heading off on different courses. The rate of increase for wholesale prices has been rising while that for consumer prices is falling. Not the prices themselves, but the percentage of increase.

The latest figures for wholesale prices show about a 4 per cent rise. Consumer prices, meanwhile, are rising at only a very small rate—two-tenths of one per cent in June and less than 3 per cent higher than a year ago.

As a result, there is considerable curiosity and some dismay among those who review economic statistics. It hardly makes sense, they say, for retailers to stabilize prices while their costs—wholesale prices—are rising.

Is the middleman absorbing increased costs rather than passing them on? It's unlikely; you don't do things like that and remain in business. Maybe the retailer is responsible? The price freeze?

The most plausible explanation now circulating is this:

The Consumer Price Index measures actual prices at which goods and services are sold in retail markets. Government shoppers, just like housewives, go up and down the store aisles checking the prices.

The Wholesale Price Index, however, measures list prices, which actually are the maximum prices at which goods are sold. List prices are not necessarily the prices at which goods change ownership.

Some companies, it is said, foresaw the likelihood of price controls being imposed and so jacked up their published or catalogue prices—just in case they needed to sell at higher prices.

Those listed prices, though, are merely the uppermost point from which negotiated prices are scaled down.

If this is indeed the case, the WPI is rarely an accurate indicator of inflation—at least for the duration of the price freeze.

Jim: "Last Monday we discussed the 'Scotch syndrome', a disease that causes some players to refuse to play an unnecessarily high card. Here is a hand that illustrates the 'grasshopper disease'. This causes players to waste an important high card to signal their partner."

Oswald: "The grasshopper disease takes other forms, but the form you mention is the most deadly. West opens the king of clubs against South's four spades contract. South takes his ace and plays out the ace and king of trumps."

Jim: "At this point grasshopper West played his nine of diamonds. He wanted to tell his partner to lead a diamond if partner ever got in. The signal was read and when South led a heart to East's ace, the diamond was promptly played."

Unfortunately for the gallant defenders, that lost nine-spotted represented a lost trick. East actually led the four. South's eight forced the queen and later on the 10 forced the ace and left South's king as a winner."

Oswald: "West could have asked for a diamond lead by simply discarding his three of clubs and playing the deuce of hearts when hearts were led."

Jim: "This might not have caused East to lead a diamond and if he didn't lead a diamond South would be able to strip the hand and make his contract, but the nine of diamonds play made things a cinch for declarer."

Fledging Eagleton campaign hurt by rumors, facts

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Tom Eagleton was so intense at work he wound up in the hospital and so intense at socializing he wound up in the rumor mill.

As the always-ebullient center of attention at parties, friends say, he simply exhibited the same characteristics off the job that marked his political campaigning and his work.

But in Missouri, a state of many staunch, dry religious fundamentalists, the combination of hearty joke-telling and a drink in hand can be stiffly viewed by some as drunkenness.

Add the hazy explanations that surrounded hospitalizations in 1960, 1964 and 1966, and the result became rumors of an Eagleton drinking problem. The hospitalizations were for nervous exhaustion, but Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton didn't say so until after Sen. George McGovern picked him this month as the Democratic candidate for vice president.

Now, after whisperings of a drinking problem in past Missouri campaigns, the twin questions of drink and health have erupted in the fledgling Eagleton campaign.

To this point, and in the face of scores of interviews by newsmen and extensive checks of public records, no document nor eyewitness account of any drunken behavior by Eagleton has surfaced.

Past Missouri associates say the Eagleton intensity at work and on the campaign trail manifested itself in long hours, breakneck pace, rapid decision-making and esprit de corps. They say they saw no effect in his work of the nervous exhaustion for which he was hospitalized.

One source told columnist Jack Anderson he had seen copies four years ago of traffic records charging Eagleton with drunken driving. But no such records have been located.

Contrary to such an account, people who knew Eagleton over the years all say firmly, and with a consistency of detail that adds to their credibility, that they never saw him drunk and that he has no drinking problem. Eagleton has steadfastly denied any such problem.

John H. Denman, who was an assistant attorney general under Eagleton though a Republican, said that Eagleton "has—and I hate to use the word—charisma. When he comes in, he dominates a party. He cracks jokes; he likes to needle the people he likes best. You see somebody that dynamic and maybe you assume he drinks."

Denman, now an oil association executive, said "I've never seen him out of control. I don't believe there's any drinking problem whatsoever."

James C. Kirkpatrick, Missouri secretary of state, campaigned alongside Eagleton all through the 1960s. He said that on the campaign trail, "I never saw Tom take more than one drink."

Scott O. Wright, a Columbia, Mo., attorney and longtime friend of Eagleton, said "I can definitely say he doesn't have a drinking problem. But he's wound up a lot tighter than the ordinary person. That's just his nature—he's really cranked up."

Eagleton himself, announcing last week that he had been hospitalized three times for nervous exhaustion, characterized himself as "an intense, hard-driving person, and as a younger man I must say I drove myself too far ... I still push pretty hard but I pace myself a great deal better than I did in those earlier years."

Eagleton's intensity was always evident to his friends and associates.

Observed Wright: "Until his mind gets really occupied, if he's just sitting around, he can't throw his leg over the chair and relax. His mind is churning all the time."

Kirkpatrick, the secretary of state, said Eagleton "has a terrible amount of nervous energy. I've seen him time and time again on the podium perspire until his shirt was soaking."

He said Eagleton would frequently dry his hands with a handkerchief and that his hands would occasionally tremble slightly when he held a speech text.

"But since he's been a senator he appears to have lost that; he seems more relaxed," said Kirkpatrick.

Yet even Saturday, when he returned to Missouri, Eagleton's face dripped perspiration and his hands shook slightly as he held a microphone.

Robert D. Kingsland, who operates the senator's Jefferson City office, speaks of the Eagleton intensity but said "I've noticed he has mellowed."

"He's a more tolerant guy," said Kingsland. "When people do something to him, he's more philosophical. In the past, you could tell something hurt even if he didn't say anything."

Obviously hurt by the Anderson charge, which he labeled a damnable lie, Eagleton, within 48 hours, was getting off one-line jokes about the matter. Kingsland recalled him "generally beating everybody to the office, frequently he ate at his desk, he just throws himself into anything he's done."

On the campaign trail, Eagleton usually worked his most tortuous hours, up to 20 a day.

Kingsland recalled one example from the 1960 campaign: "He flew into St. Louis at 4:30 one afternoon after a day of campaigning to meet with the grand jury on a delicate case. Right after that we went to a hotel and had a sandwich and milk."

"Then we went to a rally where, and I think it was a surprise to him, he turned out to be the M.C., introducing all the candidates. It lasted until past 11. Then we had a couple of beers and he went home about midnight."

"And then he was up at 5 a.m. starting again."

The tireless drive was not only at the physical level, but also for advancement. Eagleton has never reached the end of a term in office without already having been elected to a higher job.

He was nurtured for politics by his father, Mark D. Eagleton, a St. Louis lawyer and politician who lost his bid for mayor. Political tabletalk, visits to conventions and speeches were a staple in the Eagleton upbringing.

Kirkpatrick, an older man, sees some of Eagleton's intensity arising this way: "As the youngest circuit attorney in the state (age 27) and then the youngest attorney general (31) and then the youngest lieutenant governor (35), he had to prove himself. It was a cross to bear. He had to prove he was qualified and mature."

The Eagleton hospitalizations seem to have been known in Missouri political circles, but in only a generalized way that left room for the drying-out stories to grow.

Tales about driving and drinking swirled about during the 1960 U.S. Senate campaign. Primary opponents Sen. Edward V. Long and True Davis both heard them and so did general election foe Rep. Thomas B. Curtis. All claimed they ignored them—but Davis turned out to be Anderson's source four years later.

Now, with the hospitalization and drinking questions on the table instead of just lurking in the background, Eagleton and McGovern must decide what they mean for Democratic party chances in 1972.

Postmaster, postmistress or postms.?

FREMONT, Calif. (AP) — The postmaster here says women should do what they want to do. And that's one reason 25-year-old Dorothea Nicole Woolsey is the postmaster.

"There is a growing need in the postal service for people, and that includes women, with imagination and business experience — the need is just too great to allow discrimination," said Miss Woolsey, a supporter of women's liberation and acting postmaster in this city of 100,000 residents.

"I believe that women, like all people, should be free to pursue whatever career they want — if that means being a housewife, that's an important career too," Miss Woolsey added.

"But I like the career I chose."

Although she's had the job since her predecessor retired three months ago, Miss Woolsey finds people still complain. "I don't want to talk to the postmaster's secretary. I want the postmaster."

"Some people are a bit surprised, like that woman who came to complain," the postmaster conceded. "But that's only natural."

Since graduation from Boston's Simmons College for Women three years ago, Miss Woolsey has been rising fast in post office management circles.

A three-month crash course took her from Washington, D.C., to Dallas, Tex. She later served apprenticeships and special assignments in Washington, New York and San Francisco, where she was assistant to the personnel director.

She came to this suburban San Francisco Bay Area community on her own request and soon was heading a staff of 226. Miss Woolsey said she expects to stay on through Christmas, then move to another assignment.
